

Communication help for dolphin

Wednesday, 02 May 2007

Communication is important for dolphins to survive. Pregnant dolphin Castaway lives at the Marine Mammal Conservancy (MMC) in Key Largo, Florida. She is deaf. She only makes few sounds. This might hinder her calf to develop certain communication skills. Therefore recordings of dolphin sounds are played for the unborn dolphin.

Read the full story